Special Projects

- 1997 - 2012 Coordinator of Health Promotion for Older Adults Program, Institute of Gerontology, Center for Successful Aging. All programs within the clinic have educational, research, and service functions. Program's goal: Explore and implement models of health promotion that guide the process of motivating older adults to engage in healthy behaviors. This includes traditional and alternative approaches to wellness. As coordinator my responsibilities have included: development of program purpose, goals, and annual objectives, development of policies governing service and provider qualifications, assisting with providing documentation for program performance reviews.
- 2009 Applied Healthcare Information Technology and Outcome Measurement, Advisory Board, University Extended Education.
